

Commissioning

Ensure every installation is done right the first time

A comprehensive approach for a successful installation

Technical Review

Upon request, we'll review technical engineering designs for accuracy to prevent costly issues

Expert Technicians

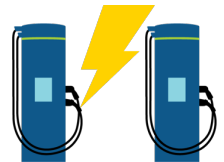

Single point of contact for both installation and commissioning ensures consistent quality throughout

Testing & Inspections

We perform all electrical, civil, mechanical, product testing and inspections to ensure uptime

Station Energization

Coordinate station pairing, activation and configuration, plus connect to the ChargePoint cloud

Use qualified technicians

- Having work completed by ChargePoint-trained Authorized Commissioning Partners helps avoid costly changes. Only trained technicians will visit your site and work with your equipment.

Verify for success

- Our detailed, auditable commissioning report documents inspection results and provides convenient validation for grant programs, accountability, utility reporting and overall site management.

Prevent unexpected issues

- Save time and energy with upfront engagement and a consistent approach to commissioning, identify issues before they become a problem, and reduce your total cost of ownership.

ChargePoint commissioning for DC products

Take advantage of our expertise in five easy steps

Step 1

Purchase Commissioning, which is required with any order of ChargePoint Express 250 or Express Plus.

Step 2

Once your DC station ships, ChargePoint will reach out and confirm the installation date and point of contact.

Step 3

2 weeks before installation, ChargePoint will reach out for final confirmation on the installation date.

Step 4

ChargePoint will dispatch an Authorized Commissioning Partner and provide you with an auditable commissioning report.

Step 5

Your ChargePoint Commissioning Engineer will coordinate your station pairing, activation and configuration, ensuring your station is connected to the ChargePoint cloud and ready to use.
